On 22 July 1954 a steamer of approximately 12,000 GRT was moored at the Quay in Gdynia. She had been raised obviously after lying under water for a long time and was heavily corroded. Her hull showed no signs of damage, however. It was believed that the ship was [redacted] which was used as an auxiliary by the German Navy during World War II." Seven lifting pontoons and three pump vessels were around the ship.
